Suitable for home energy storage and emergency backup power supply*

Overview

Southern California Edison (SCE) signed contracts for more than 260 MW of energy storage resources on Nov. 5, among them what will be the largest grid-connected battery system in the world, a 100-MW facility supplied by AES Energy Storage. Under its mandate from the California Public Utilities.

American utility Southern California Edison (SCE) has signed seven contracts totalling 770MW in battery-based energy storage to help enhance the region's reliability of electricity. The seven energy storage projects are expected to enhance electric grid reliability and address potential.

The CPUC approved five energy storage contracts for a total of 497 megawatts (MW) of capacity, which are expected to provide 462 MW of capacity towards SCE's portion of the 11,500 MW of clean energy capacity ordered by the CPUC in June 2021 in the integrated resource planning (IRP) proceeding. CPUC. How many energy storage contracts did the CPUC approve?

When will Southern California Edison's energy storage contracts come online?

The California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC), in ongoing efforts to ensure energy reliability for Californians, today approved energy storage contracts for Southern California Edison (SCE) to come online from August 2023 through June 2024.

How important are these five storage projects?

“These five storage projects show important, continued progress in our transition to clean energy, adding to the unprecedented amount of storage we’ve deployed over the past 2 years, and further enhancing system reliability,” said Commissioner Clifford Rechtschaffen.
