Will Kosovo build a battery energy storage system?

The government of Kosovo will build a battery energy storage system (BESS) with a capacity of 200MWh-plus to deal with the energy crisis.

How much money will Kott invest in a battery energy storage system?

The agreement involves an investment of approximately 236 million Dollars, with a major component being the installation of a Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) with a capacity of 340 MWh. As part of the BESS, KOSTT will own a portion of 90 MWh to provide its own ancillary services, specifically secondary reserves.

What are battery energy storage systems (Bess)?

As renewable energy sources become more prevalent in power generation, battery energy storage systems (BESS) are becoming an essential component of modern energy systems and an increasingly crucial component of the global energy transition towards a carbon-neutral economy.

How will a new energy storage system work?

According to the ministry, the first project is to purchase and install high-capacity batteries to serve as energy storage. The system will stabilize the fluctuating frequency of electricity, store energy in the early hours of the morning when consumption is low, and connect with solar, wind, or similar power plants.
