What is nutrient-rich fertilization?

With nutrient-rich fertilization products, such as plant food and mulch, you can revitalize your lawn and help ensure it stays green and healthy in the future. Most fertilizers are composed of three primary chemical elements: Nitrogen (N), Phosphorus (P) and Potassium (K). Each of these elements impacts plant and grass growth in different ways:.

How do I know if my fertilizer is correct?

The best way to determine the correct NPK needed is to conduct a soil test. If your soil test finds that all three micronutrients are present in roughly equal quantities, you can use a fertilizer with an NPK of 1:1:1, which will address all the nutritional needs of most plants commonly grown in home gardens.
